

POINTS IN PLATFORM OF RICHARD I. MANNING CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF THIS STATE

The Young Men of Sumter Organized a Young Men's Manning Club the Night of April 6th. Mr. Manning Was Sent for and Asked to Address the Club and in His Talk Briefly Outlined His Platform.

An issue before the people of this State is that of safe guarding the primary elections. The Constitution of 1895 restricted the suffrage so as to eliminate, as far as practicable, the negro vote; questions between the whites were to be settled by a friendly family fight in the primaries in which every white man, who was not barred by the Constitutional and statutory provisions was to vote. Under these conditions, differences among the whites were settled, but, being a part of family affair, no rigid rules were made or practiced; the rules our party rule as will insure to every white man the right to vote once, but to vote but once. It should be made impossible to permit repeating or to allow non-residents and citizens of other states and foreigners not entitled to vote to kill the votes of South Carolinians whose right and prerogative it is to vote. We should see to it that only living South Carolinians be allowed to vote, and each man only once, in order that the primary may be preserved and not destroyed.

Fair Assessments, Exemption of Small Homes and Farms from Taxation

I shall advocate such changes in We should adopt such changes in governing primary elections, loose as they were, were often disregarded, until it became the custom to let them go in almost any way.

When differences arose, and feeling ran high, and distrust of each other came in, dissatisfaction with prevailing methods was manifested, and charges and counter-charges of irregularities and illegal voting were made. White men's differences must be settled fairly. Party feeling and prejudice often caused men to disregard exact justice and fairness. Under our present party rule, the party abundant opportunity exists for repeating and illegal voting. Assessment and taxation as shall more fairly distribute the burdens of taxation, and make more equal assessments, and with exemptions of small homes in town and small farms of limited acreage, and I shall advocate such laws as will promote ownership of homes in town, and a home and small farms in the country. I shall advocate a land registration bill and encouragement to rural credit, warehousing of cotton, better marketing of crops, accurate grading of cotton, and protection from fraud or adulteration of fertilizers, which will protect the farmer and honest fertilizer manufacturer; and by making life on the farms more profitable, and more pleasant and comfortable, many of our problems will be solved in a safe and sane manner. Self protection, and the solution of rural problems, which confront us require attention to these matters.

I shall enlarge on these subjects later.

Economy with Efficiency in Government

I wish to stress the importance of the application of good business methods of the administration of all of the affairs of our State. I believe in efficiency with economy. The government can, by close study and attention to the affairs of the various institutions of the State, insure economy and greater effectiveness with an ever widening development, and, if elected, I will give to my State a clean, progressive business administration.

Education. I favor education at public expense. South Carolina stands nearly bottom of the list in the per centage of illiteracy. I shall never be satisfied until this per centage of illiteracy is reduced. We have made great progress in our educational system, more and more money is being spent for the cause of education. As a parent cannot spend his money better than by educating his child, so the State cannot spend its money better than by educating the citizen. I favor the maintenance and support of institutions of higher learning, and provisions for their growth and development to meet growing needs, but I emphasize the needs of the public schools. A liberal appropriation should be made by the State of a fund to supplement the funds for the school raised locally—thus to endorse and to encourage the spirit of self help.

An educated citizenship is the real justification for public education. We must make parents realize the necessity for education; that sentiment must be so strong as to force parents to send their children to school. When a community reaches that point, almost all of the white children will be in school, and a law requiring attendance upon school by all children between certain ages will be effective and as soon as it is shown that a county can have adequate school facilities, I would favor compulsory education with the local option feature, because any law, to be effective, must be supported by public sentiment.

More legislation is not a cure-all.

No Factionalism.

I want to be frank with you, my friends and neighbors; I want to be equally frank with my fellow citizens throughout the State who do not know me as well as you do—I will not sell under false colors—I want all voters to know where I stand on public questions. I want peace restored in South Carolina; this statement I made months ago, and have had no reason to change it. I want good will, good feeling, I want to see factional politics relegated to the past; I want our people to unite in advocating the policies which will build up our State; improve and uplift the character of the citizen, and give opportunity to better conditions.

I shall not unless forced to do so, recognize the existence of two factions in this State; I have many friends and supporters who voted for Bleasdale, and many who voted for Jones. In the governor's race, let us drop the personalities of the past, and looking ahead, take up those questions which affect the interest and welfare of the people. It is, however, only frank for me to state so that all may understand me and my attitude, that I have never been a follower or supporter of Governor Bleasdale, nor have I approved his course.

Some have attempted to inject the issue of Bleasdale into the gubernatorial race; while I do not agree with them in this, if the same is persisted in, then my attitude is known and is as stated. I will have no fear in meeting such an issue.

If elected governor, I promise to be the governor of all the people, and not of those only who support me. I pledge myself to do justly, and to love mercy and to uphold and maintain the honor and dignity of South Carolina. (Political Advertisement)

Gov. Glenn Invited To Speak in Anderson

Dr. W. H. Fraser stated yesterday that he is very much encouraged by the work of the Anderson Public School this year and he hopes that it will some day be as big an asset to Anderson as Anderson College. He is greatly pleased with the success of Bailey Military Institute at Greenville, and would like to see Anderson have a school of equal importance, and he knows that it can be done. The school has done well this year considering the difficulties surrounding it.

Dr. Fraser in correspondence with Governor R. B. Glenn of North Carolina, Congressman Herlin of Alabama, and others whom he wishes to come here to make addresses in connection with the school.

DEMOCRATS CALLED TO GATHER SATURDAY

CHAIRMAN GIVES NOTICE OF MEETING

WILL MAKE PLANS

Presidents and Secretaries Are To Be Elected and Delegates To County Convention

Gen. M. L. Bonham, chairman of the Democratic Executive committee of Anderson county yesterday issued a call for a meeting of the Democratic club of the county, to take place next Saturday. At this time a president and a secretary will be selected by each of the club and a delegate will be elected from each club to represent the county committee which will meet on Saturday. This is the first call issued in the campaign of 1914 and from now on there will be candidates galore appearing in the field. The actual political season proper is not supposed to open until the county meeting in May but already there are numerous avowed candidates for various offices scouting over the county soliciting the vote of the "dear pee-pul" and these will lose no time between the meeting Saturday and the county convention.

Local politicians say that the coming campaign will be one of the most strenuous Anderson people have ever experienced and some say that it will surpass the affair of two years ago. This is hard to believe. The question of what political faction will control the coming convention is one of great moment with the politicians at this time and the various factions are putting forth their best efforts. Not one opportunity will be passed up by either side if present indications count for anything.

TOWN TERRORIZED BY A CRAZY NEGRO MAN

WITH VICIOUS KNIFE HE MADE THREATS

IS LATER CAPTURED

Brought To Anderson From Pendleton Yesterday and Lodged in County Jail

Reports reached Anderson yesterday morning from Pendleton to the effect that a negro man had terrorized the town, having armed himself with a knife and parading the streets he threatened to kill anyone laying hands on him. The report said that the citizens formed a posse and armed with baseball bats, wagon spokes, and other weapons managed to subdue the negro and lodge him in jail.

Later The Intelligence learned that this report was somewhat exaggerated. The negro, Lewis Martin, was known to be insane and when he managed to secure the knife yesterday afternoon at once taken to have him arrested. The officers did experience some little trouble with him and it was necessary to call in the citizens to assist, but the affair was not as bad as first reports received here had it. Martin was lodged in the jail at Pendleton until yesterday afternoon, at which time he was brought to Anderson by W. H. Whitlock and A. H. Cranshaw. He turned over to the county officials and it is presumed that he will be sent to the asylum at Columbia.

REMARKABLE RISE OF ANDERSON MAN

John L. Pruitt a Great Farmer—Intelligencer Man's Ride Through Country

(By W. W. Smoak)

The person who would not enjoy an automobile ride over portions of Anderson county, now indeed "fit for strategems." The fast budding, and blossoming of trees in the woods, the songs of birds, the air of bustling activity on every well kept farm, with the thought of the ravest to follow the planting, the genial, whole-souled hospitality and interest of everyone you meet, are indeed causes for keenest reasons for wishing almost to become veritable knights of the road.

Such were the feelings of this Intelligence man when he traversed the splendid country between Anderson and historic Lowndesville on Tuesday in company with foreman Roper of the Intelligence's job printing department, driven by young "Barney Oldfield" in the oldest, speediest and most reliable Ford car ever brought to Anderson county—a car which is as well known in Anderson county as "Uncle Josh" Ashley, and that is saying a lot.

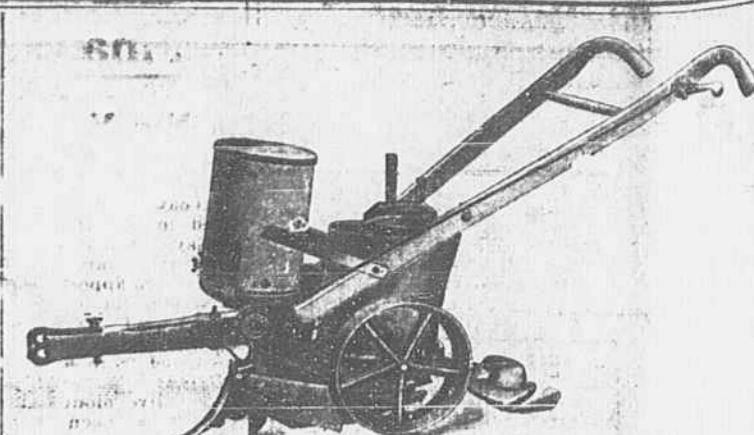

The first stop was made at Starr, where a closely contested game of checkers was in progress, being played on a rather unique home-made checker board, with "pop" bottle stoppers as "men," one player using his inverted.

All was calm and serene at Starr, which is a pretty little village of some 300 population, twelve miles from Anderson, on the C. & W. C. railroad. An ideal country town whose inhabitants are at peace with everybody and with the whole world. It is not generally known that Starr has one of the State's largest farmers, J. L. Pruitt, who produced on his farm last year 2,300 bales of cotton and whose plans for this year are to increase the yield, he having purchased this spring, forty-eight mules and another farm for $50,000. Readers of romance would find a history of the rise of Mr. Pruitt a most interesting volume. Only two decades ago he plowed his one-horse farm himself. He is but an evidence of the great possibilities in Anderson county. There are other citizens of this community equally deserving of special mention, but as this is only a running ramble, they will have to wait for a future visit.

Leaving Starr, our next stop was at Iva. Everybody knows of Iva, and Sam McAdams, who has been R. F. D. carrier there for the past twelve years. The postmaster, Lem Reed, says that he cannot do anything with Sam, so he guesses he soon will have to nab him "Uncle Sam" and let him go.

Iva has one of the cleanest cotton mills and cotton mill villages we have seen and it is said that the management is so careful that one of the most important character is never allowed to stop there. A handsome graded school building and substantial church buildings and progressive merchants and business men mark Iva as a coming Piedmont city. Already Iva is peopled by some 500 souls. Two thriving banking institutions mark the independence of her citizens. The handsome new home of the baby bank, The Farmers Bank, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by May 1.

Speaking of Iva's population, it is said that a stranger recently asked a local citizen, what was the population of Iva. He is said to have replied: "I do not know, but wait till we get there, and I will count them." We are rather inclined to the belief, however, that the conductor wished to be funny, for so uncertain a time when the trains arrive that it would be impossible for all the people to get down to the station in time to be counted.

As soon as the weather conditions permit, every farmer will be rushed to get his corn and cotton planted. He will want the best planter with which to do this. Planters upon which he can absolutely rely. There is but one Machine of this kind that has never failed in every case to operate perfectly and to give entire satisfaction—that one being the "COLE"

Our stock of these Planters is limited. We urge upon you the importance of making your purchase at once of the Planter you want.

One of the leading stores there boasts of the religious character of those who are in charge; among these are a Sunday school superintendent, a teacher, a steward and an elder. Four of them are members of the A. R. P. church, one Methodist, one Baptist, one heathen, but all of them worship the only lady co-worker in the store.

The next jump was to Lowndesville, eight miles from Iva, and in Abbeville county—historic old Lowndesville, where many illustrious citizens have lived, loved, served and passed on, leaving a record of lives well lived and of deeds well known. To do justice to this quaint and original old town, which in many respects, is as it was before its war, would require a whole newspaper instead of a running comment such as this article purports to be. Outgrowing "Old" Lowndesville, another little city, known as "New" Lowndesville, has sprung up nearer the depot and station. It was said that when the railroad was being built the owner of the vast acres there objected to its going through his land, because he did not wish to be disturbed and the consequence is that this "New" Lowndesville sprang up nearer by half a mile to the railroad than the original town.

Viewing some of the homes of "Old" Lowndesville, one is led to exclaim with the poet:

"How blest is he who crowns in shades like these
A life of labor with an age of ease."

After a sumptuous dinner at the Smith Hotel The Intelligence party were whisked back to Anderson in record-breaking time and safely, with "Barney" at the wheel. The writer feels that in the future, when the "wheels" in his head become clogged with official dust and refuse to "turn" as they should, that he shall send for the old reliable "Barney" and let him back over the same route again Tuesday, and maybe see of Mr. Pruitt's broad acres, or crave the privilege of lying awhile under the shade of some of the Lowndesville historic oaks.

Taking Rate Increase Testimony Concluded

Washington, April 10.—Taking of testimony by the Interstate Commerce Commission for a rate of increase in freight rates was concluded today, so far as the present phase of the proceedings is concerned. Arguments upon the question as to the needs of the carriers for more income have been set for April 27, and the commission expects briefs to be heard by that time. It is probable no further proceedings will be held until the commission shall have announced a decision on that question.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

SAGE AND SULPHUR
DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Brush this through faded lifeless locks and they become dark, glossy, youthful.

Hair that loses its color or lustre or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, which darkens the hair so naturally and evenly, that nobody can possibly tell that it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just scratch a sponge or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair has disappeared, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the appearance of abundance. ## The Rural Schools To Be Strengthened Louisville, Ky., April 9.—Permanent organization of the National Conference of State Supervisors and Inspectors of Rural Schools was effected today.

Next annual meeting of the conference probably will be held in Cincinnati in February 1915.

Thirty-seven states were represented and the delegates discussed the best methods for improving the rural schools of the country through state supervision. The decision of the conference as announced today was that the most pressing needs in this work are: Demonstration schools, state and local supervisors, consolidation of weak schools into strong centralized institutions, improvement of teachers' training, agricultural and industrial supervisors and community activities.

E. C. Gray of Westminster was in the city yesterday on business.
